TIFFANY LAI IN GUATEMALA

A photograph of a classroom in Guatemala. In the center, a young boy in a black t-shirt and blue jeans is smiling broadly and waving his hand. To his left, a girl in a white t-shirt is also smiling and waving. In the background, a woman with long dark hair (Tiffany Lai) and a man in a white t-shirt are standing and waving. Other children are seated at wooden desks, some smiling and some looking towards the camera. The classroom has light green walls and large windows in the background showing trees.

Dear friends,

The last two years were amazing times of growth for One Nurse At A Time. Thanks to the support of our donors, we were able to financially help 35 nurses participate in life-changing missions to remote areas where basic medical care is severely lacking. These nurses improved the health and lives of thousands, especially the most vulnerable women and children.

This year we partnered with Barco's Nightingales Foundation to provide six mission scholarships as well as funding for Nurses for Edna. We had a unique networking opportunity to bring together four women's healthcare nurses from across the US and Canada, all interested in travelling to Somaliland to volunteer with Edna Adan Hospital. The nurses spent six weeks training nursing and midwifery students and providing hands on care in this maternity facility.

Dream One, Do One, Lead One: Our inaugural Jo's Nurses trip was a grand success!

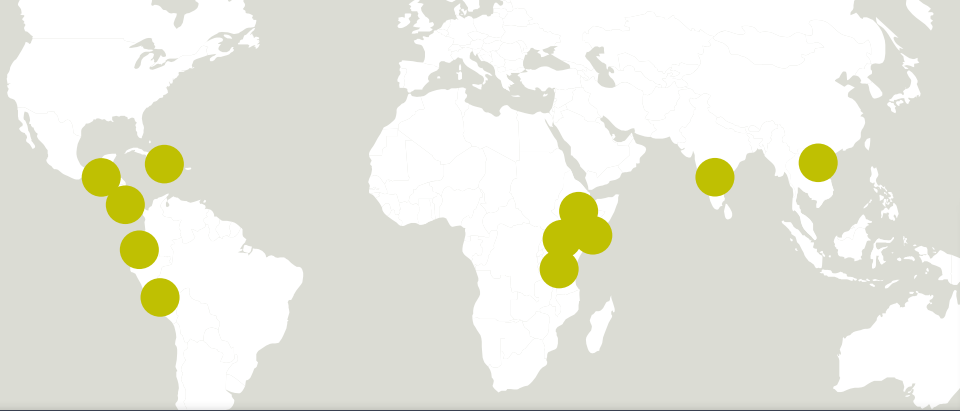

Four "first mission" nurses traveled with Guatemala Village Health to provide primary care to villages sometimes only accessible by small boat or cargo truck through the mountains. Each nurse was mentored so that over the course of their mission they began to work confidently and independently, with a commitment to continue volunteering in the future. One of those nurses, JP, will take on the mentor role for the 2014 Jo's Nurses mission. Thank you to everyone who continues to support this program that honors the memory of our dear friend Marilyn Jo Schuyler.

Since One Nurse At A Time began there have been hundreds of nurses who have written for advice about volunteering. Nurses are eager to give of themselves and One Nurse is proud to be able to offer direction and networking.

A woman with long dark hair, Ashley Basurto, is smiling and standing in the center of a group of five children. They are standing in front of a red corrugated metal wall. The children are dressed in casual clothing, including t-shirts, shorts, and a tank top. One child is wearing a blue t-shirt with a cartoon character and the text 'TEENY BOPPS' and 'IN A MESSIAH'. Another child is wearing a blue tank top. The woman has her arms around the children, and they are all looking towards the camera. The ground is a mix of dirt and concrete.

ONE NURSE AT A TIME

“There is no way to fully prepare for a ride on the back of a flatbed truck or a riverboat into the jungle to be met by an entire village waiting. I was deeply impacted by the beauty and gratitude of the people we were there to serve.”

—J.P. Denham, RN
